

Coming together or Falling Apart: Non-Tenure Track Faculty in the Time of Crisis

Friday, October 16th, 2020, 2:00 - 3:00 pm ET

This session will explore the community of non-tenure track faculty and how they are faring in a global pandemic and a time of national strife with budget cuts, protests, increased family and work responsibilities, sickness, and more. In what ways are non-tenure track faculty experiencing this crisis differently? What are their added burdens and how can institutions support these critical members of their campus communities? Leaders from a range of universities will provide an overview of what is happening on their campuses, data, resources, and disciplinary perspectives followed by a moderated discussion with the audience.

Moderator:

Dawn Bratsch-Prince, Associate Provost for Faculty, Iowa State University

Panel:

Chris Brown, Vice Provost for Faculty Development, University of Kansas

Robert Granfield, Vice Provost for Faculty Affairs, University at Buffalo (SUNY)

Janet Kistner, Vice President for Faculty Development and Advancement, Florida State University

Cheryl Koos, Associate Vice President for Faculty Development, California State University-Dominguez Hills

Gwendolyn Singleton, Director & Associate Professor, Center for Ethnic Psychological Research & Application, Florida A&M University