

Differential Effects of COVID-19 on Faculty Productivity: Performance Evaluation Approaches

December 11, 2020 – 2:00 – 3:00 PM ET

Adjusting to a new normal with COVID-19 requires that universities review their promotion, tenure, and review processes. This huddle will focus on how department chairs, deans, and promotion and tenure committees can fairly use COVID statements and clock stoppage guidelines when evaluating faculty, maintain quality standards and allow for grace, and support faculty groups who may be more significantly impacted.

Following their brief presentation, our presenters will engage participants in small-group discussions before bringing everyone back together to pool our collective wisdom in identifying effective strategies for addressing performance evaluation challenges.

Panel:

- Michelle J. Budig – Vice Provost for Faculty Development, University of Massachusetts, Amherst
- Laura G. Hill – Senior Vice Provost, Washington State University
- Nicolle Parsons-Pollard – Associate Provost for Faculty Affairs, Georgia State University
