

Dear Students, Faculty and Staff,

As we celebrate the Thanksgiving holiday next week, we have much to be thankful for. NMSU is a caring community that values diversity, respects differences and supports freedom of thought and expression. I am thankful for each of you who work hard to honor these values and to support our commitment to the communities we serve. Recent events at home and abroad remind us to look for opportunities to show others that we care.

This Thanksgiving, please join me in giving thanks, and please remember those who have faced recent losses and challenges. I hope that one day everyone can share in the freedoms and gifts we have in this great country.

I wish you a happy and safe Thanksgiving.
