Developing Middle School Preservice Teachers Knowledge of Number and Operations

Ruthmae Sears
University of South Florida
ruthmaesears@usf.edu

Fernando Burgos
University of South Florida
fburgos@usf.edu

Abstract

We will describe how faculty members in the College of Education and the Department of Mathematics and Statistics collaborated to develop middle school pre-service teachers’ mathematical knowledge for teaching relative to number and operations. We will highlight the nature of the collaboration, the activities and assessment utilized, and implications it had on preservice teachers’ mathematical development.