As the fall semester begins, the Fall re-opening plans that institutions developed over the summer are being put to the test. Many institutions have found it necessary to adjust their plans to deal with outbreaks on their campuses and instituted innovative testing strategies.

Join your CAA colleagues for the “Successful Strategies for the Fall 2020 Semester” virtual session on September 18th from 1:00-2:00 PM ET.

This session will enable provosts to discuss important lessons that have been learned which can be very helpful in developing strategies for a successful Fall semester and inform planning for the Spring semester.
