The CAA convened seven virtual sessions earlier this year to assist our members with planning for Fall 2020 and beyond. However, as the semester progressed, many plans had to be revised due to unexpected circumstances. Despite our hopes and efforts, the pandemic continues to present significant challenges to our campuses, communities, and nation, delaying a hoped for “return to normal”. So, the lessons learned during the Fall will be invaluable in planning for the Spring 2021 semester.

This session will provide a forum for provosts to discuss these lessons learned and share insights into strategies for meeting the challenges expected next semester.

The session will start with the provosts above discussing their institutional approaches followed by a free-flowing discussion for all participants.
